National War Labor Board Chief Resigns

OTTAWA, March 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced yesterday in the commons that Mr. Justice C. P. McTague has resigned as chairman of the National War Labor Board.

In making the announcement Mr. King read a letter he had received from Mr. Justice McTague, dated March 8, asking that he be relieved of the chairmanship as of March 17.

Mr. King also read his reply, dated yesterday, in which he said he had delayed replying earlier in hope that Mr. Justice McTague might reconsider his request.

The letter of resignation on behalf of Mr. Justice McTague and the prime minister two weeks earlier.

Mr. Justice McTague wrote: "NO MISUNDERSTANDING."

"May I say so that there is no misunderstanding, my decision is not based on any differences with the government nor the minister of labor personally. While the new wages order and the new labor code are perhaps not as I would personally desire them, I recognize the government's responsibility for them."

"As an administrator it is no function of mine to criticize. As a matter of fact I think the new code represents a milestone in labor relations and an excellent start. No doubt with experience amendments will prove necessary in both orders. That is to be expected in the natural course of things."

"I explained to you in conversation, I feel that I set out to do on your invitation is a matter of fact. I am not sure I can now take over with a degree of confidence. The past year has been a particularly arduous one for me and I am rather tired."

TOO LONG AWAY

"I should like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the government of the day for having honored to Canada's war effort in your capacity as chairman of the National War Labor Board throughout a very difficult year in the life of the board and of the services you had previously rendered over a period of two and one-half years on the War Contracts Department Board," he said.

Angus MacInnis (CPC-Vancouver East) asked whether a successor would be left out of the board. Mr. King said the new chairman would be announced as soon as possible, and the board would function in the meantime.

When a small child, he enlisted with the Royal Canadian Regiment as a private Feb. 15, 1940, and went overseas in May of the same year. His father, Arthur Campbell, lives at R.R. 2 Toileid, Cpl. Campbell took part in the famous Battle of Britain and saw action in Sicily and Italy. Three other brothers are also serving with the Canadian Army overseas. "Chris" with the Royal Canadian Artillery, is also fighting in Italy, and Lloyd of the R.C.A.S.C., and Adolph "Dutch" of the R.C.A.S.C. are with the Canadian troops in England. A sister, Mrs. Donald, lives at 8060 89 avenue, Edmonton.

Cpl. (Acting Sergeant) A. Campbell, M.M.

Corporal (Acting Sergeant) George Henderson, Canadian Infantry Corps, was born at Edmonton, Alberta, Oct. 28, 1910, and resided there at the time of his enlistment with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, appointed Provisional Lieutenant, Nov. 1940, and proceeded overseas Oct. 18, 1940. He was promoted to the rank of Acting Captain, May 1942, and was captured on April 5, 1943, and held in captivity until Sept. 1943. He is a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

His father, Col. H. M. Watson, at present officer commanding the 13th Alberta Division.

Answers Criticism

Navy Minister Is Against Sending Ships Into Pacific Until Atlantic 'Job' Done

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, March 17.—(CP)—Navy Minister Macdonald said yesterday in the Commons that Canada was successfully doing a big job in naval convoy work on the Atlantic and too much time should not be spent in thinking of sending ships to the Pacific until that job is done.

Answering inquiries by Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver) whether the Pacific war so she would not be left out of the Pacific war, Mr. Macdonald said that Britain had comparatively little strength in the Pacific now, but no one suggested Britain would not have a say in Pacific affairs after the war. No one suggested Russia would not have a say although there was no Russian fleet operating there.

Political Broadcasting

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has established a valuable precedent in setting aside a half hour each month for the free use of the major political parties. The time allocated to no unduly depress those who object to such material edging in on symphonies and soap operas. It is quite enough to give basic political enlightenment. If there are any listeners who crave more than thirty minutes a month of political enlightenment, they are decidedly in the minority and are not to be considered too much.

The decision, however, does recognize an important principle. It recognizes the principle that, since the radio is now a major channel for the conveyance of thought and alleged thought, it is better to give political parties an open platform than to dam up the torrent of political ideas and force them to permeate ostensibly innocent programs in the form of propaganda.

As between concealed propaganda and candid partisanship there is only one choice. The C.B.C. has made the right one.

Penalizing Pensioners

Stiff criticism of Old Age Pensioners has been uttered in the Alberta Legislature and the Government is said to be giving the matter "earnest consideration."

While "earnest consideration" is about as far as the Alberta Government can go in amending the regulations, there is no reason why the Dominion Government should not long since be able to progress beyond that futile stage.

The fact is that the regulations governing the issue of Old Age Pensioners are grace to any civilized country. The particular regulation complained of in the legislature is that which provides that a pensioner from receiving any pension or income other than his Old Age Pension without being docked proportionately on the latter.

In other words, this vicious rule compels an aged person to become a pauper before receiving the Old Age Pension.

It is shameful that such a rule should be so low. It is shameful that recipients should be actually debarred before they receive it. But the Dominion Government of aged folks is the most shameful thing of all.

Hitter Started This

London, Coventry, Hamburg and Berlin must now yield precedence to a tiny railway station recording of a small bombing raid under discussion. The unenviable distinction of having been heavier hit than any other place on earth in a single raid goes to the little town of Walsby, in Lincolnshire, which had a population of 300 before the Nazis moved in and the natives cleared out in three hours and a half, fourteen hundred tons of bombs and a half, fourteen mile square. This works out at around two and one-half tons per acre. It is easy to understand the feeling that this was not a building standing in the village when the dust settled.

What happened on Wednesday, April 24, 1940, was a surprise. The first of the Australian bombers set another record, when they dropped 3,300 tons of bombs on the city of Stuttgart, and other targets in western Germany. The raid was planned and carried through as a single operation, and was the heaviest air blow ever delivered in any area.

The same day word came from London that Britain's factories are now turning out planes in greater numbers than ever before, while the United States production chief said plants in that country are now building 350 planes per day. From this it may be surmised that even the astounding records cited above are not likely to stand very long.

The effectiveness of bombing may still be an "experiment," but there isn't any doubt which side is supplying the guinea pigs.

Well on the Way Back

The parliament of Australia is tending a banquet to General MacArthur to mark the second anniversary of his landing from Bataan. It is fitting that the occasion be marked by a celebration. For the intervening period has shown as remarkable a change in the war that Australia as the first half of last year showed in the situation in Russia.

The General returned to Australia a fugitive, after an unsuccessful attempt to hold Manila with insufficient forces and equipment, no reinforcement came, and a tragic lack of both men and material in all the Allied countries from which help might have come. The fortunes of the United States had been waning in Europe, and everywhere else. But it was an unlucky day for the Japs when they failed to capture MacArthur. To have clapped him in an internment camp would have been worth many divisions to them, for he has been the directing head of operations which have cost them thousands of men, scores of warships and transports, and many hundreds of planes.

When he reached Australia the General said he would go back to Bataan.

Tokyo can no longer doubt it. Under his leadership the approaches to Australia have been turned, and the approach to the Philippines and to Japan itself. The Japanese garrisons planted in New Guinea, New Britain, the Solomons, the Admiralties, are now doing fighting for their lives. Tokyo's conquered islands have ceased to be assets and are now liabilities. His island air force has been smashed, his sea, his air, and his merchant marine has been so reduced that it can neither serve the outposts nor carry home the materials for his war plans.

The threat of invasion, very plain to Australians two years ago, has faded away. In the whole eastern zone Japan is now on the defensive—on the defensive—on the defensive. The initiative, daring and resourceful, of General MacArthur are proclaimed by the amazing reversal of the situation. Two years ago they were about about. The banquet which is being tendered to him at Canberra is well deserved. And it marks long and very definite progress on the way "back to Bataan."

Admiral Nimitz has returned to Pearl Harbor from Washington. The last time he got back to base after visiting the capital he launched the invasion of the Marshall and then the Caroline Islands. Tokyo is entitled to suspect that his recent trip to do with plans for further operations which it is not going to like.

Moscow dispatches say that while 45,000 Hitlerites in the Kherson pocket are being "successfully exterminated" an "avalanche" of Red troops has been opened in sweeping toward the Rumanian border. The Russian style of expression seems to be as direct and forceful as the blows of its armies.

A playful British pilot has decorated his latest mission with a most amusing slogan: "No hostile aircraft can penetrate German defenses." But he had better paint out that reminder of Hermann's misadventure just in case he is going to run into a crash in Germany. The Nazis have little sense of sportsmanship, and none of humor when the joke is on them.

Rumanian delegates are reported to be at Ankara, scouting around for a chance to make the desertion of the war and save it from the devastation that is rolling toward it from the north and the east. Whoever they represent they are wasting their time. The country is heavily garrisoned by Nazi troops, and when the German army enters the country, the Rumanians will be driven across the border, and will be treated as what any Rumanians may want. The country will then become a battleground, and its people subject to the horrors of being endured by the people of Italy. The Allies—excepting Russia—have no particular interest in the Rumanians, and in no position to help it escape from Hitler's grip.

ALTHOUGH the present series with the Vics appears to be developing into something of a romp for the Lodestars, the prospect facing the New Westminster club isn't altogether a happy one. The coast team had quite a layoff waiting for the British-Columbia-Alberta playoff, but that was merely a sleight compared to what is looming up now.

Possibly Moose Jaw may be sandwiched in but otherwise the survivor would have to wait until April 4 for the session with the Thunder Bay winner at Port Arthur, unless a switch is made in the meantime. The Allen Cup final is due to commence on April 15 and was originally scheduled for Toronto, Montreal or Ottawa.

Under the present setup the Western junior series will be fairly well, but the senior outlook from the financial point of view is not so rosy. Deputies of the C.I.A. officials showed some eventuality, but were quite willing to take a loss in either or both divisions, rather than permit the playoffs to go into the black.

Treasury Branch Loans
Total Almost $1,000,000
House Is Told in Debate

The provincial government treasury branches have loaned out between $900,000 and $1,000,000 on good security or collateral, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, said in the Legislature Thursday afternoon, during a full-dress discussion on the treasury branch system.

Debate arose when the House in committee of supply, took under consideration the treasury branches' appropriation of $577,320, for operation in the next fiscal year. The amount is lower by $17,500 than last year's vote.

After more than an hour's discussion, which became warm and spirited many times, the vote was passed.

Mr. Low's statement as to loans was made in reply to questions asked by J. J. Bowen (L.-Calgary). He said they have been made to farmers, livestock and feeder associations and members who had good security, and to industries that have put up good collateral. To feeder associations, school districts and municipal districts, the loans have been made at four per cent interest, the minister said.

APPEAL TO SPEAKER
After the committee had discussed the treasury branch system at some length, James Hartley (S.C.-Macleod), chairman, ruled that members were holding up the business of the House. Protesters over the ruling appealed to Mr. Hartley, resulting in Hon. Peter Dawson, Speaker in the Legislature.

Mr. Hartley's ruling was made when, after numerous questions had been asked regarding the treasury branch system, Mayor A.

entia authority to the effect that the whole question was of order, as correct procedure had not been followed.

Mr. Bowen intervened that no attempt should be made to cut off the debate. Premier Ernest Manning said members were not clear as to what was stated in the ruling which was to be voted upon.

The speaker told the house that Mr. Hartley had reported his appeal in writing, stating some members were holding up business of the house.

A standing vote was then taken on the ruling. It was sustained by a count of 23 to 24, with cabinet ministers voting "for" and "against," and members of both sides of the house dividing on their stand.

Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, then suggested that the committee revert back to the treasury branch vote, which was agreed to.

Mr. Dawson then completed the question he had begun earlier. He said it appeared that by March 31, 1945, there would be a deficit of $115,625 on treasury branch operations, and asked how the government was going to handle it.

BOOKKEEPING DEFICIT
Replying, Mr. Low said the $900,000 appropriation for contingent liabilities would take care of the needs up to the end of March. The total sum Mr. Dawson had mentioned was not an ordinary deficit, but a bookkeeping deficit. He added that Mr. Dawson's figure might be correct, if viewed "only in the light of dollar cost and dollar revenue." George MacLachlan (Ind., Ponoka) said the treasury branches' two per cent consumers bonus was encouraging persons to buy goods while the Dominion was trying to discourage buying. "This is the most pernicious system ever devised, taking into consideration the needs of war," he commented.

Mr. MacLachlan continued: "In view of the war situation, the government would be well advised to drop the whole scheme. People have to buy anyway. Why bother then to do something they have to do?"

Mr. Low said the bonus for one thing is to encourage people to use the treasury branch facilities. "We want to encourage the use of the voucher," he added.

A question by Angus J. Morrison (Lab., Edmonton) asked for information on the $35,000 item in the estimates for interest payments. The figure is an increase of $10,000 over last year.

INTEREST ON DEPOSITS
"It is for interest on deposits," Mr. Low answered. To another questioner, he said amounts on deposit in the treasury branches stood at between $900,000 and $1,000,000.

The question of treasury branch loans was discussed by the minister explained he did not directly supervise the loans. The ability of a loan was decided by a three-man board, which had recommendations from the branch manager. Asked later whether the loan board reported to him, Mr. Low said he received copies of minutes of its meetings, which he examined carefully. "I never interfere if the board is satisfied with the loan," he stated.

J. H. Walker, Independent party leader, asked "How much can a branch manager loan without consulting the loan board?"

Mr. Low said the amount varied according to a manager's experience. Some were limited to $500, others to $500, and some had a limit of $1,000.

Asked by Mr. Walker if foreclosures would be made if a person was unable to repay a loan, the minister said this action might be taken ultimately, but so far no one had been in need of any foreclosure.

E. E. Roper (C.P.-Edmonton) asked what percentage of loans were covered by chattel mortgages, and if customers were permitted overdrafts. A chattel mortgage existed in almost every loan to farmers, the minister replied. Regarding overdrafts, he said some were allowed.

OBSERVES DANGER
Mr. Bowen observed a danger existed in loaning money to persons who could not borrow anywhere else. He said such an arrangement might be heading for trouble, and said danger also existed in loading up on chattel mortgages as some prices are now going down.

"We are trying our best to assist and keep control of loans," Mr. Low replied.

P. McKeivry (Ind., Ponoka) asked regarding losses on such loans. He was informed that such loans had been written off. The amount concerned did not exceed $2,000.

Replying to a suggestion by Lionel Fellet (Ind., St. Albert), that a full report on treasury branch operations should be made to the House soon after it is opened each year, instead of members having to "coax" for information, Mr. Low said "You are not coaxing me, and have never had to do so."

Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, observed that every bit of information that has been asked for has been given. He said if the member who says he knows what he wants, we will get it, unless it is confidential."

Black Market Now Uses "Catnaps"
LISBON, March 17.—(AP)—The Munich newspaper Muenchner Merkur Nachrichten, reporting a fantastic black market in cat meat in Budapest, said yesterday that "catnaps" had stolen more than 100,000 household pets in recent months. The black market operators bribe children to deliver cats, and were informed that such cats were to be butchered and disposed of the hides through fur dealers, the newspaper said.

Luxury Liner Now Invasion Ship

H.M.C.S. "Prince David", a luxury liner in the days of peace and an auxiliary cruiser in the early days of the war, is wearing new warpaint now. Her once wide decks are cluttered with massive davits and heavy machinery for landing craft and she is equipped to serve as the nerve centre of an amphibious invasion force. She carries a battle-tested crew, veterans of Combined Operations work.

Ambition Chilled

Ambition inspired the pup in the photo above to try and walk across Lake Michigan at Chicago by skipping over floating ice, but cold reality caught up with him and he was marooned. Coast Guard patrol boat rescued him.

Co-Bras

When Anne Jeffreys, blonde Powers model now in the movies, received two cobra snakeskins from an American soldier stationed in Burma, she didn't quite know what to do with them. Then came the brainstorm—resulting in the "co-bras" she is pictured wearing in the photo above.

They Serve on the Home Front

"To Make a Long Story Short"

Accused of hoarding wheat, this Italian land-owner is apparently expressing his lack of understanding of the predicament in which he finds himself. He's in a jam with Allied military government officials who charge him with declaring only one-third of the wheat he is holding. He will be tried for hoarding before A.M.C. court.

Canadians, Gurkhas and Yanks Fight the Germans Side by Side in "Sunny" Italy

To make himself a little more comfortable, Technician Robert Macon, of the U.S.-Canada Special Service Force, sits on a chair as he covers an area on the Anzio-Nettuno beach-head. At right are Pte. Paul Alvarez and Sergt. Alex. Pederson, a Canadian from Saskatchewan.

Victoria Cross Made From Enemy Cannon

The Victoria Cross

Most exalted of all decorations given the armed forces for heroism is the Victoria Cross.

It was established in 1856 by Queen Victoria, on the suggestion of the Prince Consort, as a reward for individual acts of supreme gallantry by either officers or men.

In the royal warrant it was ordained that "the cross shall only be awarded to those officers or men who have served us in the presence of the enemy, and shall have performed some signal act of valour or devotion to their country."

The cross is of modest bronze, cast from captured cannon. On the obverse is the royal crest of a lion above the British crown with a ribbon beneath it inscribed "for valour." On the back of the suspender from which the cross hangs is recorded the name, rank and other particulars of the recipient. The back of the cross carries a record of the act for which the decoration was awarded. The holder is entitled to V.C. after his name. In the event that it is won twice by one man a replica cross is added to the ribbon. This has happened only twice in the approximately 1,000 times it has been given.

Wounded Canadians Get Best of Attention

A Canadian jeep at front lines in Italy is pictured as it rushed wounded soldiers to the car post behind the lines.

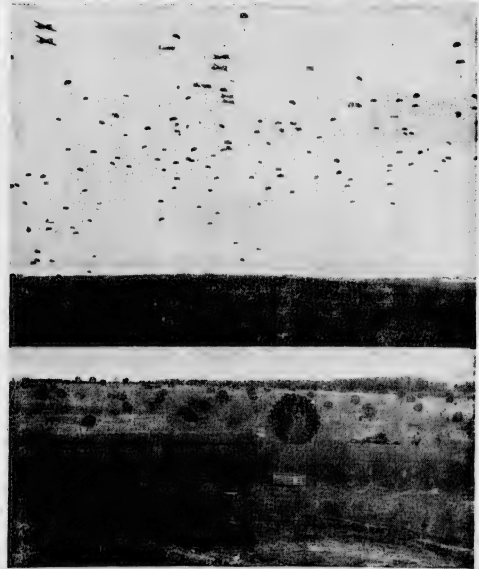

Famous Artist Paints Canadian Northland

A. Y. Jackson, dean of Canadian painters, working in his Toronto studio on one of the paintings of the Canadian Northland that will be placed in the National Gallery under a plan to have Canada's war effort recorded by Canadian artists. The changing north that fell under Mr. Jackson's skillful eye as he travelled through the Yukon and Alaska regions has also been recorded by Canadian cameramen, and the results of their work can now be seen in the National Film Board's latest Canada Carries On release, "Look To The North". Many of the scenes Mr. Jackson is painting appear in the film.

Canadian Paratroops Cascade From English Skies

Preliminaries for the main bout of invasion are occurring regularly overseas as Canadian forces prepare for the smash against continental defences. In the top picture are shown paratroops descending by hundreds from troop transport planes under the protective cover of a smokescreen (background) during spectacular manoeuvres recently in England. In the bottom picture are seen some of the paratroops landing. Their first job is the collapsing of their chutes, to ready themselves instantly for combat or action. The concealing smokescreen is still visible in the background.

Almost legendary figures of the battlefields are the Gurkhas. Here Nayak Ovel, who took a machine-gun nest single-handed, chats with Ruklemen Bagtabachlue and Asabachin.
